Dear Programmer:

I have been involved in teaching non-credit community services type courses for the past 25 years. I have presented my courses in dozens of higher education institutions in several states.

I would like to take this time to introduce you to Sid Lewis. Sid is an accomplished teacher and musician who has designed a course aimed at acoustic guitar players and other string instrument players.

Sid has been presenting his workshops at many locations in California for several years now, ongoing. I have attended his classes and find him to be a compelling and effective presenter. I've known Sid for several years and know him to be conscientious, organized, focused, and thorough. Plus the content of the material has great appeal.

I heartily recommend you consider offering Sid's workshop in your non-credit curriculum.

Sincerely,

Robert Laughlin
